

Indian Mountain School is currently accepting applications for full-time Upper Campus (Grade 5-9) teachers for the 2022-2023 academic year. The ideal candidate will possess a solid understanding of children’s academic, social, and emotional development. An associate’s or bachelor’s degree is required, and a minimum of two years teaching or related experience is preferred.

IMS seeks candidates who will:

- Develop, manage, and deliver curricula for core academic subjects, including one or more of the following: English, history, math, science, and world languages
- Prioritize the integration of diverse voices into and throughout their courses
- Differentiate their instruction by accurately assessing students’ current skill levels and using individualized strategies to help them progress towards mastery
- Assess to accurately gauge student progress as well as student performance
- Collaborate with colleagues on interdisciplinary and school-wide objectives
- Foster student-driven and student-choice learning

Candidates should also be able to demonstrate the ways in which inclusive and equitable practices inform their approach to instruction, course design, and sense of community.

Full-time Upper Campus positions also include responsibilities in the athletics and residential life divisions. On-campus housing may be available for interested candidates.

Please send resume and application materials to Alex Hodosy. Candidates whose qualifications and experience align with the school’s needs will be contacted.
